Cultural Gathering

Ireland Focus: An Irish Festival

Prepare a Cultural Presentation

Read the poem, "The Wearing of the Green," and its background in "Fun and Traditions from Many Lands." It would be a great touch to make a shamrock pin, which will have relevance as you research the poem. Perhaps one student could do each of the above, presenting the history and importance of each.

Gather Supplies or Decorations

Put together a plain, homespun table setting. Be sure to have appropriate electronics for the entertainment portion of your evening, such as VCR, DVD, or CD players. You'll also need a potato for the "Hot Potato" game.

Entertainment Ideas

Games & More

"Hot Potato"

Everyone should sit in a circle. The potato (or a soft ball) should be passed around from person to person as quickly as possible, while everyone chants, "hot potato." When the leader says, "Out!," whoever is holding the potato is out. The winner is the last one left in the circle.

Irish Step Dancing DVD

See if you can get a traditional step dancing video or DVD from the library. "Riverdance" is a recently performed version of traditional dances. These performances are very exciting.

Music

Borrow some Irish or Celtic music from the library. There should be a good selection.

Menu Ideas

Irish Stew

Irish Potato Cakes

Soda Bread

Irish Cinnamon Apple Cake

Find recipes for these foods in "Fun and Traditions from Many Lands," in the Ireland Section.

Plan Your Entertainment & Decorations

Which elements of the gathering will you include?

What will you do for decorations or the setting?

When will you complete crafts?

Who's going to do what?

What supplies do you need?

Plan Your Menu

The dangers in other jobs are no less real. Though a child may not be burned or crippled working with garments or polishing gems, they can be exposed to breathing in hazardous amounts of dust, working in dim conditions or with high levels of noise, or around dangerous chemicals -- all things that can affect a child in the long term.

Child laborers aren't usually found in large factories, but in small shops or doing piece work at home. Larger factories regularly face inspections or their workers are organized into unions that prohibit child labor. Instead, children work in shops that supply goods or pieces to the larger factories.

Let's Talk About It

Discuss the following as a family:

How many workplaces or factories can you list from your reading in which it is common to find child workers?

What kinds of dangers are faced by children who work in match factories?

What kinds of dangers are faced by children who work in glass factories?

What kinds of dangers are faced by children who make fireworks?

Take a look at the list of workplaces on page 26. What other dangers can you imagine might be a part of working there, especially for children?

Why aren't child laborers usually found in large factories?

France Experiences

To the Web! Visit the Louvre

You've just got to visit the Louvre in France! There's a virtual tour online that will take you right there, and you can see one of the most incredible art museums in Europe! Be sure to get a peek at the Mona Lisa!

Set Up a Mini Tour de France!

The Tour de France is one of the best-known bicycle races in the world. It is a grueling test of physical endurance. In honor of this international sporting event, set up your own "Mini Tour de France" with your siblings and friends. Plan out a course through your neighborhood or close to home that your parents approve. Make paper numbers to pin to the shirts of those who participate, and remember -- you must wear a helmet! The pros certainly do! Have someone keep track of your times, and have fun!

Learn Some French Words

Did you know that the French language, like English, Spanish, and Italian, comes from Latin? That means you may actually see words that look familiar to you when you encounter the French language. About 113 million people around the world fluently speak French.

One thing you'll notice right away about French words is that their pronunciation can be quite different from the way they are written. This is because French is written as the language was spoken 400-500 years ago. Here are some simple French phrases to get you started, along with pronunciation help.

Good morning.	Bonjour.	Bon-joor.
How are you?	Comment allez-vous?	Comm-ong tal-ay voo?
Hello.	Salut.	Sal-oo.
Good evening!	Bonsoir!	Bon-swah!
Please come in.	Entrez, s'il vous plait.	On-tray see voo play.
Yes.	Oui.	Wee.
My name is ...	Je m'appelle ...	Zhe map-ell ...
Do you speak French?	Tu parles francais?	Too parl fron-say?
I'm sorry.	Pardon.	Pah-don.
Thank you.	Merci.	Mair-see.
I would like ...	Je voudrais ...	Zhuh voo-dray ...
Toilets.	Les toilettes.	Lay twah-lett.
Police station.	La gendarmerie.	Lah zhon-darm-er-ee.
Look!	Regardez!	Ruh-gahr-day!
I am lost.	Je me suis perdu.	Zhuh muh swee pair-dew.

Counting in French:

- 1 - un or une (un, oon), 2 - deux (derr), 3 - trois (trwah),
- 4 - quatre (kat-truh), 5 - cinq (sank), 6 - six (sees), 7 - sept (sett),
- 8 - huit (weet), 9 - neuf (nuhf), 10 - dix (dees), 100 - cent (son)

Learning About Basic Needs

Good Food & Clean Water

I'm not sure whether or not you like to eat all of the food your parents bring to the supper table. Everyone has their favorites (like mashed potatoes!) and their not-so-favorites (how about brussel sprouts?). Still, having good, nourishing food is vital to being a healthy and happy person. Every day at least one person out of every ten in the world go to bed hungry.

Even more important is clean water. You may not think a whole lot about what comes out of your kitchen faucet every day, but it is clean, fresh water that is free from disease. Water is great at carrying diseases, and many children around the world have difficulty getting clean water. They do not have faucets that bring fresh, running water to them, and must draw water from wells or rivers nearby. They are left to drink water that can make them sick, because it carries bacteria that infect their bodies. Every day 14,000 people die because the water they drink is contaminated in some way!

Consider how much food and water are available to you! Let's find out how much water you use every day! Using the chart below. Keep track of how much water you use in one day.

HOW MUCH WATER?	HOW MANY TIMES?	TOTAL
You drink about a half gallon.	$\frac{1}{2}$ X _____	= _____
At least another half gallon goes to cooking your food.	$\frac{1}{2}$ X _____	= _____
You use at least half a gallon to brush your teeth; if you leave the water running OR as you brush, you use $2\frac{1}{2}$ gallons!	$\frac{1}{2}$ X _____	= _____
A visit to the bathroom uses $2\frac{1}{2}$ gallons.	$2\frac{1}{2}$ X _____	= _____
A bathtub takes 23 gallons or more.	23 X _____	= _____
One load in a washing machine takes 30 gallons!	30 X _____	= _____
TOTAL WATER USED IN A DAY:		_____

Many people around the world get along with just $2\frac{1}{2}$ gallons a day for their cooking, drinking and bathing. How many people could use the water you use in one day? _____
